The universe is something like a bomb. As soon as the universe came into existence it started swelling and going on expanding."

The calculations of many astronomers as to the speed of nebulae receding is correct, he said, the universe is expanding—"I might almost be exploding at a really terrific rate."

"The material universe," he continues, "appears to be passing away."

George has now an air of perpetual motion in the style of Nicola Schimmler, a local man who claims to have invented a line operating by a mixture of wind and air, which requires the expense of no oil whatever. Mr. Schimmler claims that his engine will about one-third as much space as a gas engine, and will cost about one-half as much. It is a most efficient power plant, and it is installed where it will save the expense wherever it is used. It is highly secretive as to the use upon which his engine operates his business manager, H. Schimmler, announces that the small revolutionary industry.

Resources Office For Northern Saskatchewan Located At Indian Bay Junction

One of the three natural resources offices of the Northern Saskatchewan Government has been located at Indian Bay Junction by J. Marshall, who has been in charge of the Porcupine reserve for many years, has moved to the Junction. He has been promoted to district superintendent. His district covers the Manitoba boundary to the west, and from township 25 on the north to the Churchill River. All relating to the forests, lands, and fisheries within this part of the area is to be administered from this office.

the control room of station WGB and watched from behind the co-what is believed to have been world premier broadcast of a three-and-a-half-hour dramatic production.

Irene Warner, Violet Haworth
Douglas Hope, made television history in their appearance in "The Make-Drama."

The play went on the air to received by those with a television and radio combination set, the being a shame relative to a station, but not without many fans. Yet, the experts said "Give once time."

Everything possible was done to outline notes because the crash show-lemon would have given temptation of artillery in action, men played in stockinged feet. girls were soft sandals.

A Simple Treatment For Children's Cold

Child in the hand is very common

This time of year, especially in the very young, suggests of a cold or influenza. But don't let it pass for nothing. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating colds, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotic or other drugs, they simply soothe the inflamed membrane, relieve the suffering, ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without any irritating action, no cathartic, no constipation and colic. They clear the throat, break up colds and coughs if severe; prevent health-sleeping and coughing; soothe the throat and soothe away. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box. Write for literature to Dr. J. C. Davis, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa.

Thought Converted Into Electric Energy

A machine which is said to register thoughts by curves has been developed by Professor Hans Burger, of the University of Jena, Germany. The invention converts thought into little energy, which is registered on a chart. The "thought chart" locates a weather or earthquake chance. Deep thinking shows violent up and down, shallow thinking merely a small line. So far, nobody has been able to read the thoughts themselves, a further research will be made to discover whether an interpretation of the curve is possible.

JACK WINTER LOSES LIFE WHILE SWIMMING

It would take a full fledged poet to describe the tragedy of the drowning of Jack Winter, a young man of 21, who was killed while swimming in the water near the shore of the lake on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Winter was a student at the University of Toronto and was a member of the swimming team. He was killed while swimming in the water near the shore of the lake on Sunday afternoon.

THE HAIL STORM

At the best of times, a hail storm which destroys standing grain and garden crops is to be deplored. Drought, excess moisture, ravages by insects and diseases are all bad enough, but generally speaking, hail storms are particularly vicious. They generally come at a time when expectation of a crop is high and in a few minutes turn hope into something resembling despair. There are few things in the world more beautiful and filled with promise than a good sized field of standing grain and there are few things more hopelessly tragic than a field of grain battered, broken and destroyed.

It is particularly unfortunate that hailstorms should destroy crops this year. General economic conditions being as they are, each farmer needed all the revenues that his farm could produce and to see a promising crop wiped out in a few minutes is very discouraging. Even so, the power of humanity to withstand adversity is marvellous. Wars, plagues, and pestilence have proven this again and again, and upon the ruins from former plagues and more magnificent fortunes have arisen greater and more magnificent ones. There are few will be to farmers, or for that matter men in general, who have not experienced some of the bitter disappointments, times when the future appeared dark and despair was in their hearts. But by simply "trying on" time laid provided a way out and a road to personal prosperity.

"Hope deferred" may be a bitter pill, but it also strengthens the will and determination to succeed in spite of all the obstacles to be overcome. The Alberta farmer is tough. If his crop was destroyed he would never have changed a virgin and undeveloped province into one of agricultural utility and beauty. When we know personally that on Sunday morning had seen their grain standing and on Sunday night had seen it lying in ruins, it is not the same with a smile, not a grimace. It is this spirit that carries one on to success.

The hailstorm of Sunday was a peculiar one. The prevailing week had been very hot and the break came on Thursday night when a storm of moderate force broke over the district. Friday and Saturday were not particularly hot and Sunday was quite cool. Consequently, there was considerable surprise expressed that the heat wave had passed without producing a serious and damaging hail storm. In addition to the latter condition, the hail was a good deal of damage done by the storm, judging by casual conversation, the hail was not very heavy. The morning's hailstorm in general and formation of hail-stones in particular. Consequently we are reprinting below the article on hail as it appears in Reynolds' Encyclopedia.

In old textbooks hail used to be described as frozen rain, but its production is now ascribed to more complex atmospheric conditions than were then supposed. Vapors suggested that when two clouds, charged respectively with positive and negative electricity, lie one above the other, hail is produced by electrical discharges passing up and down through the moisture laden atmosphere. But a more modern theory is that whirling movements, caused by the uprush of heated air to mingle with colder and denser strata moving transversely above, bring down nuclei of ice from the higher clouds; these as they descend congeal upon themselves layers of softer ice from the moisture around, and are again driven upward, such movements continuing until at length the hail falls to the ground. In most cases electricity is generated, this finding of lightning. Another theory is that hailstones are due to the congelation of water at a great height; that the ice fragments thus formed are shattered by electric discharges and then re-congealed, thus being many times repeated. True hail is rarely seen except in summer, is most frequent in warm countries, and is usually associated with thunderstorms. Hailstones vary greatly in shape and size, but round and conical pellets are the most common. There is always a kernel surrounded by layers, sometimes alternately transparent and opaque. Professor Sylvanus Thomson says the kernel has occasionally been known to consist of stony matter, containing iron. Hailstones have been found that took the curious form of plano-convex lenses, like magnifying glasses. The very presence of such a nucleus may have been produced by the conglomeration of smaller pellets. Darwin tells of a storm in S. America, when hail as large as small apples and extremely hard, fell with such violence as to kill most of the wild animals. In the St. Lawrence Valley, July 7th, 1875, Monsieur Colquhoun found hail stones with kernels 60 to 100 millimetres in diameter (2 1/2 to 4 in.) and weighing 100 to 200 grammes.

Then, hailstones met in the fall. In July 1788 a hailstorm passed over France in two parallel belts, each only 9 m. wide, one 400 m. and the other 800 in length. In the interval between them 15 m. wide, rain fell in torrents. It has been asserted that in the same year the hail was largely discolored, hailstones become more prevalent, owing to the bare earth, when beaten by the sun, sending up a much warmer air than the air that would arise from a cool forest region.

In old textbooks hail used to be described as frozen rain, but its production is now ascribed to more complex atmospheric conditions than were then supposed. Vapors suggested that when two clouds, charged respectively with positive and negative electricity, lie one above the other, hail is produced by electrical discharges passing up and down through the moisture laden atmosphere. But a more modern theory is that whirling movements, caused by the uprush of heated air to mingle with colder and denser strata moving transversely above, bring down nuclei of ice from the higher clouds; these as they descend congeal upon themselves layers of softer ice from the moisture around, and are again driven upward, such movements continuing until at length the hail falls to the ground. In most cases electricity is generated, this finding of lightning. Another theory is that hailstones are due to the congelation of water at a great height; that the ice fragments thus formed are shattered by electric discharges and then re-congealed, thus being many times repeated. True hail is rarely seen except in summer, is most frequent in warm countries, and is usually associated with thunderstorms. Hailstones vary greatly in shape and size, but round and conical pellets are the most common. There is always a kernel surrounded by layers, sometimes alternately transparent and opaque. Professor Sylvanus Thomson says the kernel has occasionally been known to consist of stony matter, containing iron. Hailstones have been found that took the curious form of plano-convex lenses, like magnifying glasses. The very presence of such a nucleus may have been produced by the conglomeration of smaller pellets. Darwin tells of a storm in S. America, when hail as large as small apples and extremely hard, fell with such violence as to kill most of the wild animals. In the St. Lawrence Valley, July 7th, 1875, Monsieur Colquhoun found hail stones with kernels 60 to 100 millimetres in diameter (2 1/2 to 4 in.) and weighing 100 to 200 grammes.

Then, hailstones met in the fall. In July 1788 a hailstorm passed over France in two parallel belts, each only 9 m. wide, one 400 m. and the other 800 in length. In the interval between them 15 m. wide, rain fell in torrents. It has been asserted that in the same year the hail was largely discolored, hailstones become more prevalent, owing to the bare earth, when beaten by the sun, sending up a much warmer air than the air that would arise from a cool forest region.

At the best of times, a hail storm which destroys standing grain and garden crops is to be deplored. Drought, excess moisture, ravages by insects and diseases are all bad enough, but generally speaking, hail storms are particularly vicious. They generally come at a time when expectation of a crop is high and in a few minutes turn hope into something resembling despair. There are few things in the world more beautiful and filled with promise than a good sized field of standing grain and there are few things more hopelessly tragic than a field of grain battered, broken and destroyed.

It is particularly unfortunate that hailstorms should destroy crops this year. General economic conditions being as they are, each farmer needed all the revenues that his farm could produce and to see a promising crop wiped out in a few minutes is very discouraging. Even so, the power of humanity to withstand adversity is marvellous. Wars, plagues, and pestilence have proven this again and again, and upon the ruins from former plagues and more magnificent fortunes have arisen greater and more magnificent ones. There are few will be to farmers, or for that matter men in general, who have not experienced some of the bitter disappointments, times when the future appeared dark and despair was in their hearts. But by simply "trying on" time laid provided a way out and a road to personal prosperity.

"Hope deferred" may be a bitter pill, but it also strengthens the will and determination to succeed in spite of all the obstacles to be overcome. The Alberta farmer is tough. If his crop was destroyed he would never have changed a virgin and undeveloped province into one of agricultural utility and beauty. When we know personally that on Sunday morning had seen their grain standing and on Sunday night had seen it lying in ruins, it is not the same with a smile, not a grimace. It is this spirit that carries one on to success.

The hailstorm of Sunday was a peculiar one. The prevailing week had been very hot and the break came on Thursday night when a storm of moderate force broke over the district. Friday and Saturday were not particularly hot and Sunday was quite cool. Consequently, there was considerable surprise expressed that the heat wave had passed without producing a serious and damaging hail storm. In addition to the latter condition, the hail was a good deal of damage done by the storm, judging by casual conversation, the hail was not very heavy. The morning's hailstorm in general and formation of hail-stones in particular. Consequently we are reprinting below the article on hail as it appears in Reynolds' Encyclopedia.

CANADIAN GOODS IN THE ORIENT—

As time goes by, the Chinese are purchasing more and more goods from abroad. Hong Kong continues to rank as one of the most important ports of the world. Productive activity is continuing to expand. The Chinese are now finding it is hard for the west to understand. From 1970 to 1980, Chinese purchases from Canada had a value of about $30,000 a year; from 1961 to 1977 the value of Chinese purchases from the U.S. has been well in excess of ten million dollars. Twice within the past five years the value of the U.S.'s imports from Canada has been in excess of $100 million. The U.S. has a large number of direct and indirect imports from Canada had a value close to twenty million dollars. For this calculation it is desirable to include the imports of Hong Kong and Macao.

Canada, on the poll standard and the value of her bushels, have not been affected by changes in the price of silver.

Gradually, new ideas and Western innovations are being funneled into the lumbering industry. Libelbush believe. New types of foods are being eaten, new kinds of clothing are worn, and new types of machinery are required for the homes that are being built. Out of such changes come a new and steadily increasing demand for a wider and wider variety of Western products.

In recent years wheat and flour have made up a large proportion of Canadian sales to the East. In 1920, the year when Oriental purchases reached their peak, Canada's wheat and flour exports to this market had a value in excess of $35,000,000. Among other exports there were $25,000,000 worth of lumber, $10,000,000 worth of clothing, $10,000,000 worth of hardware, and square timber; $2,000,000 worth of aluminum; $2,500,000 worth of lead; $1,500,000 worth of steel; $400,000 worth of tin; and $200,000

In no country has there been more rapid economic progress than that which has been achieved in Japan since the beginning of the century. It is only within the past two generations that Japan began to trade with the Western World. In 1913, for the first time, that the value of Japan's imports from Canada exceeded one million dollars.

THE MARKET— In a quiet, almost unobtrusive manner, a market, which absorbs more than fifty million dollars a year of Canadian products, has been built up in intelligence Detachment in these countries. Under the guidance of the government formed by liberal trade relations and the free exchange of goods, banks and the railroads, Canadian trade with other foreign countries has been built to substantial proportions. They have been able to develop and have navigated this trade development with most countries, but China and Japan have become most important markets for goods and services to be exchanged. Now that the attention of our manufacturers and exporters has been centered upon the business of trade with China and Japan, it is not surprising that the years 1920 and 1921. Each country is seeking new trade outlets. The process of developing trade relations with the world will take time; it is not a market accessible to high speed steamship nor to western methods of traveling. The trade connections are an excellent medium for making primary contacts in the world. It is quite essential in export markets, however, that the manufacturer should know the qualities, the varieties and the styles of his goods, and the methods of distributing a business in new territory it is important

Cases; Warning Is Issued

Although infantile paralysis is raging in eastern centers, no cases of the dread child malady have been reported in Edmonton recently, according to the city health department.

Montreal has now 80 cases of influenza, secured from the highest where roadwork is progressing. Allan Stein, 5 years old, son of Charles Stein, living two miles north of town lost the thumb and upper joint. First two fingers of his right hand on Thursday. Allan, with his small brother had attempted to grate the caps by hitting them with rock-

Scenes of wonderful peaks, masses of ice fields, roaring falls and grand views abound on a scenic highway

The Alberta section of the proposed trans-Canada highway is to go by way of Medicine Hat, Calgary and Banff. Announcement that the route has been definitely selected was made Tuesday morning by H. G. H. McPherson, minister of public the scenic attractions of the proposed road. This trip was made some years ago by a party of which Mr. Cunn, Hughes was a member and which took 10 days during the month of July.

As reported some days ago, the Dominion government is considering the feasibility of the scheme as it has been suggested that work would be provided for unemployed men, and single unemployed men. The road would form a direct link being the route as indicated. The route as indicated has been influenced to a great extent, says Mr. McPherson, by the fact that the connections across the prairie provinces and British Columbia can be completed at a quite early date.

"No doubt," another source has later declared, "the minister pointed out the presence of Alberta and British Columbia in the scheme, and in accord with the suggestion recently made by the prime minister of Canada."

are nagging and uncertain. What has caused this, and how are we going to remedy the situation?

Oniting all the superficial explanations, such as the influence of the war debt in industry; the falling price of silver; the tariff; the state and the tariff; the fact remains that the cause of our depression is the replacement of men by machines. The labor saving machinery of the past few industries in the last few years have and are throwing more and more men out of employment. It is not without work that the machinery of these machines and curtailment takes place followed by further economic depression and unemployment to infinitum.

Many voices have in the past pointed out this danger, but with rather meagre success. Organized labor has been the most insistent in urging upon the legislature the necessity of passing laws to protect the work-week, or both, so as to allow for the enlarged output of the machines. Old Age Pensions and Unemployment Insurance have also been urged as a need special and practical application. The

How Many Sales Transactions Do You Need?

An Advertisement Addressed to our Local Retailers

It is possible for a retailer to calculate the number of sales transactions required by his business each day, week, month, year. Here's how the calculation can be made:

1. Divide the estimated operating expense for the year—the amount required for rent, wages, delivery, etc.—by the number of days in the year. This will give you the daily operating expense.
2. Divide this total by the number of working days in the year—260, in order to get the average daily cost of operating your business.
3. Ascertain the amount of the average sales transactions. (The daily revenue of individual sales, over a period of a month or so, will enable you to make this calculation.)
4. Reduce the amount of gross profit received on an average sales transaction. (The gross profit is usually 25 to 30 per cent.)
5. Divide the total average daily expense by the profit on an average sales transaction.

Thus you get the number of sales transactions required daily to recover the costs of doing business.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all who are so busy with their work, that they have no time to do anything but work. We wish you all a very happy Christmas and a very happy New Year.

If we all had the Christmas spirit, we would not be so busy with our work, but we would be so busy with our family, that we would not have time to do anything but work. We wish you all a very happy Christmas and a very happy New Year.

Christmas Eve was a very busy day for the Kitchamot people. The streets were filled with people who were going to the stores to buy their Christmas gifts. The stores were very busy, and the people were very happy.

SPED BY HIS MAJESTY

RENDER-STUTMAN

A very pretty wedding was celebrated in the Roman Catholic Church on Thursday, December 28th, when Miss Penelope Stutman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stutman, was united in marriage with Mr. John H. Render, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Render. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father J. H. Stutman, assisted by Mr. J. H. Render. The bride was attended by her bridesmaids, Misses J. H. Stutman and J. H. Render. The groom was attended by his best man, Mr. J. H. Render. The wedding was a most beautiful affair, and the reception was given by the bride's parents at their home. The bride wore a beautiful gown, and the bridesmaids wore matching dresses. The wedding was a most successful one, and the newlyweds are expected to have a happy and prosperous life together.

CHRISTMAS IS OVER AGAIN

Christmas is over again, and we have entered into another year. As we look back on the past year, we can see that it has been a most successful one. We have accomplished many of our goals, and we are looking forward to a bright future in the coming year. We are grateful for the support and encouragement of our friends and family, and we are confident that we will continue to achieve great things in the future.

WEATHER FORECASTER HERE HAVE NOTHING BUT GRIEF

Phonetic Is America's Toughest
Lip For Prophets

Play the poor weather forecaster. Thermometers and barometers have been jumping around so violent, by their own admission, that the "boys" had no choice but to follow the weather which is the only forecast the atmospheric conditions.

And it is said to the effect, Ed, mention it to the weather forecaster, then talk of any other part in the whole of America. Professor L. H. Worton, University of Alberta, who knows much about the weather

[illegible]

Education is in a position where it can't afford to be too precious, or stress every little thing. There are very few metaphorical stations in the journey, and the southern Pacific area is no exception. As a result when these low pressure areas come fitting, we don't have to be too concerned. The Pacific there's no one there to lose their faith and faith went to Education. If they come, there are stations there to record the results.

And these low pressure areas come so fast, it's hard to get a few, but you just have to be about the same way. For instance a low pressure area can jump from the Pacific to Education in 15 minutes. It's not a surprise a train can do and running different versions by saying the boat was grounded and being joy to the man who pays the bill.

Save! No Warning

Edmund Ho is a position where I know about these low prices, save some every time. There are few metropolitan stations in the north and so many ships on the Pacific coast. As a result where the low pressure comes first, fog not the northeast or across the Pacific there's no one there to tell the fact and flash word to warn them they come via Alaska.

Warning Note

There are stations there to record the weather.

And these low pressure areas come from the west to the east, are published about of their arrival, and the ships are warned to make a run jump from the Pacific to the north coast.

And the ships come to the north coast, the trip comes to the north coast, the trip comes to the north coast, the trip comes to the north coast.

Then again if they do know of a low pressure area, it's hard to get that in at 1400 feet. Or it may be a low pressure area.

That's the reason why we get

Because these chinook winds from the Pacific coast come galloping over the mountains in record time and when one is least expecting them. Professor Nichols describes some of their tales as "lightning."

[illegible]

few meteorological stations in the north and not so many ships out on the coast as in the west, so these low pressure areas come flitting out of the northwest or across the Pacific coast, and so we can sense the fact and flesh word on to Edmonton. If they come via Alaska there's a chance there's a storm.

These low pressure areas come so fast, that it's hard to get a forecast published about their arrival. For instance, if a low pressure area jumps from the Pacific to Edmonton in 12 hours—baiting the weathermen's traps—there's not much slower than an aeroplane can make the trip. The forecasters are often such a little bit late, but no one can deny they do about it.

Then again if they come in the low pressure areas, it's likely to get flitting by at 1400 feet. Or it may

[illegible]

Because these thousand words in the Pravda article are so full of errors, I will not repeat them. I will only mention a few of the mistakes in regard to time and when one at least expects them. Prof. Kuznetsov describes some of their trips as "lightning." "In the past ten days," he states, "I have traveled 1,000 miles." He has been coming in from the Pa. ridge, one after the other. It was the fastest he could make with his sleds, for their resters passed about 500 miles north of the ridge; this part they are not so directly in line with Edmonston.

They are, however, on how deep these big peapussy areas are. If they are "shadows," as Professor Nicholai de, believes, they are not going to get along Edmonston where the snow, plains are. If they are deep, they generally are. It is not so much the ground, except the air back and forth

Education is in a position where it can't afford to be too precious, or even very elite. There are areas every time. There are very low-metological stations in the country, and in the northwestern part of the Pacific area. As a result when these low pressure areas come fit, low and low, the northwestern Pacific there's no one there to show the fact and flash word to Education. If they come there are stations there to record the fact and flash word.

And these low pressure areas come so fast, it's hard to get a few, not just a couple of about the same way. For instance a low pressure area can jump from the Pacific to the Atlantic in 15 minutes. And it's a real case of a jumping a train case and running few meteorological stations in the north and not so many ships out on the coast as in the west, so these low pressure areas come flitting out of the northwest or across the Pacific coast, and so we can sense the fact and flesh word on to Edmonton. If they come via Alaska there's a chance there's a storm.

A few low pressure areas come so fast, that it's hard to get a forecast published about their arrival. For instance, if a low pressure area can jump from the Pacific to Edmonton in 12 hours—beating the surprise record of the 1947 Arctic storm—then it's possible that it can make the trip. The forecasters are not sure, but they think it's possible, but no one can say for sure. It's then again if they come from the low pressure areas. It's likely to get flitting by at 1400 feet. Or it may

Through Good Times and Bad

THROUGH GOOD TIMES AND BAD YOUR LOCAL PAPER KEEPS COMING TO YOU WEEKLY. WHEAT MAY BE UP, DOWN OR JUST AVERAGE, BUT EACH WEEK THE MERCURY OFFICE THE ENGINES SPLITTER, THE LINTOPE CLATTERS ALONG AND THE PRESS RUMBLERS ROLL OUT THE PRINTED SHEET. THERE ARE BETTER PAPERS OF COURSE, AND THERE ARE WORSE, BUT ALL NEWSPAPERS TRY THEIR HARDEST TO KEEP GOING. BIRTHS AND DEATHS, WEDDINGS AND FUNERALS, COMEDY AND TRAGEDY HAPPEN IN GOOD TIMES AND BAD TIMES AND MUST BE RECORDED.

TEAMS WIN AND LOSE BASEBALL GAMES, HOCKEY GAMES, CURLING GAMES, TENNIS AND OTHER SPORTS IN GOOD TIMES AND BAD TIMES ALSO. PEOPLE GO AWAY FOR HOLIDAYS, TAKE TRIPS, ARE COMPELLED TO VISIT HOSPITALS, IN GOOD TIMES AND BAD TIMES TOO.

A SOW MAKES A REVOLUTION ON ONE FARM, A HEN LAYS AN EXTRA LARGE TWO CYLINDER PRODUCT ON ANOTHER, WHILE OLD BOSSIE THE COW, WITH THE AID OF THE HUMAN AGENT, KEEPS THE MILK SWISHING INTO THE PAIL ON MANY OTHERS.

THERE ARE SOME PEOPLE TOO, NO MATTER WHETHER TIMES ARE GOOD OR BAD WHO PAY THEIR SUBSCRIPTION TO THEIR LOCAL PAPER PROMPTLY. TO THESE WE EXTEND OUR SINCERE THANKS. SOME, HOWEVER, ALLOW THEIR SUBSCRIPTION ARREARS TO RUN FOR A FEW YEARS—AND PRESTO!—THE LOCAL PAPER HAS A NUMBER OF ACCOUNTS OF COMPARATIVELY SMALL DENOMINATIONS, SPREAD ALL OVER THE DISTRICT. WE ARE JUST ABOUT TO SEND OUT SUBSCRIPTION NOTICES TO ALL IN ARREARS. IF YOU OWE US FOR YOUR PAPER, WON'T YOU CO-OPERATE WITH US BY PAYING YOUR ACCOUNT NOW.

THE AMOUNTS ARE NOT LARGE AND WITH A LITTLE EFFORT COULD BE PAID. TO US THEY REPRESENT A GOODLY SUM AND ARE NECESSARY FOR THE SUCCESSFUL FUNCTIONING OF OUR BUSINESS.

FAMILY FARM - A NATIONAL BULKWARK
(Christian Science Monitor)

THESE ARE difficult days for advocates of corporate farming. Someone has said that the only profits in corporate farming are those made by the writers of magazine articles on the subject, a statement which might be echoed by the receivers who are trying to straighten out the affairs of some of the largest corporate farms.

The amount of magazine space given to laudatory articles about corporate farming in the United States is no less astonishing than the eagerness with which big bankers and business men have welcomed this as the way out for agriculture. Both can be accounted for only on the assumption that agriculture has been getting much less than its fair share of the national income, and that farmers must make adjustments to correct that discrepancy.

During this period of severe and prolonged economic stress the nation is fortunate to have one great industry which is composed of small independent units that can stand adversity without resort to charity or public funds. Financially, agriculture has been better off than it has been for some time. It could have met the depression as it has met it, by discharging its workers and its other employees.

It is not pleasant to speculate on what might have happened during this period had agriculture been consolidated on corporate farms. The managers of these corporations would certainly have price declines, by laying off men and reducing production. No doubt that policy would have maintained prices at about the level of the present level. That would have made the burden of caring for the unemployed for a considerable number of months. Added to that, we should have had millions of unemployed in rural districts.

American needs the stability and security of an agriculture made up of family farms. In a propertyless and unorganized economic system, corporate farming might be useful, but until society is better able to direct its present complex economic machines there will be little gain to be had from corporate farming. Instead of industrializing the United States in the sense of replacing the family farms with large corporate farms, we need to find some means to give to the city family some of the stability and security that is the heritage of agriculture.

WIAIT PRUE LIVING
ANOTHER SUICIDE, and yet another, Surely even the most casual newspaper reader must be struck by the enormous increase in the number of those who die by their own hands. It cannot escape the facts that every day more and more people are taking their own lives. And if he thinks at all he must view with genuine alarm the rising tide of these suicides. The most disgraceful of all crimes is that of suicide. The last month several suicides to the shameful roll. The last month several suicides to the shameful roll.

Principals in Heroic Sea Rescue

On the afternoon of Saturday, March 12, there was a rescue of a shipwrecked vessel in the Gulf of Mexico. The ship was the "S.S. ...", which had been wrecked on the coast of Mexico. The rescue was carried out by a party of men, including the captain of the ship, who were able to save all the crew and passengers. The rescue was a heroic one, and the principals involved in it are being praised for their bravery and skill.

WAR AND DISARMAMENT—
(Canadian National Railway Magazine)

WAR! THAT old, old, weary word, that dreadful reality that has tumbled its brute shape across the world since time began. It is now glorified, non-existent, but it continues to take its toll of human life and broken hearts, involving the innocent and the defenceless as well as the active participants.

Here and there, men and women are waking up to what it means, and we are being immortalized and asked to sign petitions in favor of the abolition of war and the means of war and to bend our energies towards the promotion of international peace. Strangely enough, such petitions would scarcely have been possible a quarter of a century ago, certainly not on such an extensive scale. They would have been regarded as irrational and unpatriotic, which is looked upon as the equivalent of lunacy.

From the time that the cave man cracked another cave man's skull with his club, through the time when man with stone axe bashed in the heads of his enemies with stone axes up to the present with his explosive and finished means for wiping out men and thousands, constant and non-combustible allies of war had war and its advocates; but it was not until the "Drift of Specie" was published in 1914, the explanation of it seemed to disappear, and "the air of the fittest" became a reality, said you see a new and interesting revelation. Now, they said, you see that war is necessary; it is in the very order of things. We are told of "natural law" in tooth and claws, "the law of the jungle" and "the law of the fittest" on him. Each side a player and in turn was slain, life living upon death.

It is the struggle, and without struggle we cannot rise nor attain. All this is singularly stupid reasoning. As a matter of fact, the analogy between the struggle for existence which rages through living nature and that of the human world is not at all like warfare between humans, especially since the invention of gunpowder. An eminent scientist—Ray Lankester—says, "You do not see it true among animals against bees, bears against wolves, vultures against eagles in big wild animal battles and brigades." That is the first reverse, and the second is that war among men does not result in the survival of the fittest, but just the reverse. The fittest are killed off, or are maimed and made unfit to contribute their fullest and best to the race. It is said that the Napoleonic wars reduced the number of the men of France by two inches; not of course, that the biggest in stature are the best; but it is not only that that suffers by war but brain, initiative, the brain of the fittest and the best that does not result in the survival of the fittest and so declared.

Fallacy number three is that we look back to primitive conditions and down to the animal world for these conditions for war, but should war have a place in the world of forward-looking human beings? Is there nothing better for us than to be guided by the struggle for existence in the animal world? We should and must look not down but up, not backward but forward, and spend our endeavors towards something constructive instead of something destructive, towards the preservation of human life, not its destruction. "If war is right," said one who served from 1914 to 1918, "then I am morally mad and I know no difference between good and evil. War does not uplift; it is unnatural, cruel, irrational and the very antithesis of what should obtain in the human family."

It is the glory of facing danger that lends meaning to war; but the martial type of character can be bred without wholesale slaughter of human beings. Those virtues that war is supposed to produce can be gained, as the Russians say, by push of spade as well as push of sword. There are heroes in everyday life quite as worthy of admiration as those that adventure their physical life on the field of blood.

GOVERNMENT OWNED RADIO?

"DOWN EAST" there was a committee appointed to go into the question of radio, considering the question, not only from the view point of the listener, but from all possible viewpoints. The committee was appointed mainly through the activities of many people, including some statesmen, who were convinced that radio listeners would receive better programmes if the government owned radio stations than they are now receiving. Radio service, a comparatively modern innovation, has been handled in two distinct ways by two of the foremost nations in the world, Great Britain and the United States of America.

In Great Britain men in authority, quickly recognized the importance of a national viewpoint, of radio and very early after its inception the government took over control and have a monopoly of broadcasting. There is no advertising, and programmes, while they are varied, are planned carefully, with a view to "what the people should have" as well as to "what the people should have."

In the United States development of radio has been along the lines of private enterprise. Companies and individuals have developed radio practically without government interference. In Great Britain the cost of broadcasting is derived from the license fee. In America, and in Canada also, the cost of broadcasting is derived from advertising revenue. Many people would like to see the British system adopted here.

There are several reasons to consider before one changes for a change, even though after consideration, a change is still desired. The most important is the relative size of the two countries. The problem of the British Broadcasting Company, of a similar company operating in Canada, is entirely different. There is the present, unacknowledged interest to consider. The Canadian government, like the British government, has an opportunity to take over broadcasting when the science was new. Now it has been developed to a high degree by private interests, it is quite fair to let them to push them ahead. Without doubt, most listeners, at the best, only tolerate radio advertising, they do not like it. Many commercial firms provide really excellent programmes, but these are marred by references to toothpaste, coffee, tea, soap or some such article. There is invariably a question which is not pleasant. Comparison is often made between magazine and radio advertising, but it is not a true comparison. Magazine advertising is there to read when you are in the mood to read it. Radio advertising is to a certain extent forced on you.

If it is of any length, we believe it is an often no time out. In contrast there is the magnitude of the spoken word as against the coldness of the printed word. In considering the question of government controlled broadcasting, in Canada, the following may be of interest. For technical reasons there can only be so many broadcasting stations. This means that if broadcasting is a public enterprise, it is of necessity restricted to a few. In contrast, there is no mechanical limit to the number of magazines that can be printed. Again, there are only so many broadcasting hours, with a consequent limit to the amount of advertising any one station can handle. Tell me as that Mr. A. can get his message on the air while Mr. B. possibly cannot. Consequently Mr.

In the United States development of radio has been along the lines of private enterprise. Companies and individuals have developed radio practically without government interference. In Great Britain the cost of broadcasting is derived from the license fee. In America, and in Canada also, the cost of broadcasting is derived from advertising revenue. Many people would like to see the British system adopted here.

There are several reasons to consider before one changes for a change, even though after consideration, a change is still desired. The most important is the relative size of the two countries. The problem of the British Broadcasting Company, of a similar company operating in Canada, is entirely different. There is the present, unacknowledged interest to consider. The Canadian government, like the British government, has an opportunity to take over broadcasting when the science was new. Now it has been developed to a high degree by private interests, it is quite fair to let them to push them ahead. Without doubt, most listeners, at the best, only tolerate radio advertising, they do not like it. Many commercial firms provide really excellent programmes, but these are marred by references to toothpaste, coffee, tea, soap or some such article. There is invariably a question which is not pleasant. Comparison is often made between magazine and radio advertising, but it is not a true comparison. Magazine advertising is there to read when you are in the mood to read it. Radio advertising is to a certain extent forced on you.

If it is of any length, we believe it is an often no time out. In contrast there is the magnitude of the spoken word as against the coldness of the printed word. In considering the question of government controlled broadcasting, in Canada, the following may be of interest. For technical reasons there can only be so many broadcasting stations. This means that if broadcasting is a public enterprise, it is of necessity restricted to a few. In contrast, there is no mechanical limit to the number of magazines that can be printed. Again, there are only so many broadcasting hours, with a consequent limit to the amount of advertising any one station can handle. Tell me as that Mr. A. can get his message on the air while Mr. B. possibly cannot. Consequently Mr.

GOVERNMENT OWNED RADIO?

"DOWN EAST" there was a committee appointed to go into the question of radio, considering the question, not only from the view point of the listener, but from all possible viewpoints. The committee was appointed mainly through the activities of many people, including some statesmen, who were convinced that radio listeners would receive better programmes if the government owned radio stations than they are now receiving. Radio service, a comparatively modern innovation, has been handled in two distinct ways by two of the foremost nations in the world, Great Britain and the United States of America.

In Great Britain men in authority, quickly recognized the importance of a national viewpoint, of radio and very early after its inception the government took over control and have a monopoly of broadcasting. There is no advertising, and programmes, while they are varied, are planned carefully, with a view to "what the people should have" as well as to "what the people should have."

8th prize $5.00 cash
9th prize $2.50 cash
10th prize $1.00 cash

$3,000.00
IN CASH PRIZES

A total THOUSAND DOLLARS for merely estimating the number of cords in the average Goodyear tire. Think of what you could win with $3,000.00. New cash prizes at the Goodyear Tire Company.

There are plenty of wonderful things you can do with real money and lots of it. And there is no catch in this contest. Someone is going to win the $3,000.00 first prize for the nearest correct estimate. And others will win the 100 other cash prizes which may be won from $500.00 down to $10.00.

You don't have to spend a cent of money to enter. Read the simple contest conditions, get an entry blank from any dealer selling Goodyear Tires, and send in your estimate today.

Anyone from a household in Canada where a car is owned may enter. There is no entry fee, nothing to buy, no special requirements. All tire dealers, all employees of rubber companies, and families of both are desired.

See the six Goodyear Tires of various sizes, types and ply thicknesses at any Goodyear tire dealer's, then estimate the number of cords in each, add the six individual tire estimates together, and divide by six to arrive the average. Record the number you estimate on a standard entry blank which may be obtained free of charge at any Goodyear tire dealer's.

A section of the fabric showing the Superwall cords, is on display in every Goodyear tire dealer's store. This will help you make your estimate. The closing date is June 30, 1932. No entry bearing a later postmark date will be considered. Address: The Goodyear Superwall Cord Contest, New Toronto, Toronto 14, Ontario.

JOHN DEERE Willing To Pay 77¢ Per Bus.
For Wheat

To assist the farmer to adequately equip his farm with implements the John Deere Co., will pay 77¢ per bushel for wheat, basis No. 1 at Winnipeg up to 40¢ per bushel of the purchase price of implements. Should wheat be worth more, the farmer gets the difference.

By this arrangement which I will be pleased to explain in detail, the farmer has assurance that he will have at least part of his money taken care of at his farm wheat valuation.

JOHN DEERE DEALER

"It's a fine day," said the barber.
"Yes," agreed the little man about to be shaved.
There came no other salience. The hair-dresser again.

What are views on the political man.

"The same as yours, said the little man."

This was too much for the barber.
"Look here," he said, "how do you know what my opinion are?"
"I don't," said the customer,
"but I know your business."

It's necessary for Christians
The answer requires a knowledge of the Bible, and the role of the Holy Spirit in the lives of Christians. The Bible is the source of the Christian faith, and the Holy Spirit is the power that enables Christians to live in obedience to the Bible. The most important change in the new Labour Party's policy on housing is that it has moved away from its previous policy of building new council houses. The new policy is to build new council houses only where there is a proven need for them. This is a significant change from the previous policy of building new council houses wherever there was a need for them. The new policy is also a significant change from the previous policy of building new council houses wherever there was a need for them.

"An Economy Year is a Year for Goodyear Tires"

TIRES

$6.70

Twenty-five years ago two brook-da, the order to join the Anglican Church in India. One became a successful farmer in Wrentham, Alaska, the other rose from assistant teacher in the Bureau of Indian Affairs to the rank of Brigadier General in the U.S. Air Force. And so the two-way parted, they have never met, although 1915 almost saw the reunion, when the Archbishop was home on holidays, and the Canadian brother invaded to Kingston to receive the Archbishop's offer that he be

[Since 29 < 4.40.21]

Yes, it's perfectly true! That price is not a printer's error. You used to pay more than double that for tires not nearly so good.

These have the famous Fairbairn tread. Other sizes proportionately low. All genuine Goodyear tires and all fully guaranteed.

A Strange Railway Car Visits Toheld

DETROIT THE INVISIBLE—MAKES TRAVEL MORE SAFE

Looking like a cross between a city street car and a dross caravan, a railroad car painted yellow and red and stayed overnight on Saturday last. Its color and appearance, exciting our curiosity, the Mercury man led to the railroad tracks to take a closer look.

Closer inspection proved it to be something out of the ordinary, so with as wise and sophisticated a manner as possible the Mercury man inspected first one side, the other side and then both ends. He recognized a radiator and a bell at one end, (everybody knows what a radiator and a bell are), and a rail car coupling at the other end. (MOST everybody knows what a rail car coupling is.) Both sides looked pretty much alike. There were windows, wheels and framework; the reader has probably seen windows, wheels and framework on other railroad cars, but on the under carriage the Mercury man applied some heavy brushes, trolley wheels, electrical contrivances and what have you. This proved beyond doubt that the car was not for some other purpose than to excite the curiosity of rural residents, and disproved the theory that it was the car the Canadian National Railway remodeled for Premier Bennett. The outward appearance did prove however that if we were to learn what it was, it was necessary to get inside.

At that time the only occupant of the car was a colored man who was sitting in the car. He was sitting in the car, and he was sitting in the car. He was sitting in the car, and he was sitting in the car. He was sitting in the car, and he was sitting in the car.

A surprisingly large number of children are suffering from physical defects which hinder their mental and physical development. The most common defects are those of the teeth, nose, ears, eyes, and throat. These defects are often overlooked by parents and teachers, but they can be corrected by a specialist.

Indeed, this is an age when the most common defects are those of the teeth, nose, ears, eyes, and throat. These defects are often overlooked by parents and teachers, but they can be corrected by a specialist.

Have You Been Renewed?

YOU KNOW, IF YOU HAD A FEW HUNDRED SUBSCRIPTION ACCOUNTS ON YOUR WAKE, YOU WOULD SAY TO YOURSELF, I WONDER WHO IT WILL BE WHO WILL RENEW TODAY. AND WHEN THE DAY IS DONE AND YOU CALL THE HAPPENINGS TO MIND IN RETROSPECT, AND YOU REALIZE NO ONE CAME IN AND RENEWED THAT DAY, IT IS QUITE POSSIBLE YOUR DREAMS WOULD NOT BE AS PLEASANT OR YOUR REPOSE AS SWEET AS IT MIGHT OTHERWISE BE.

BUT IF WHEN REVIEWING THE DAY IN RETROSPECT YOU COULD RECALL TWO OR THREE, FOUR OR FIVE, SIX OR SEVEN RENEWALS, THE TIGHTEST OLD COUGH WOULD BE ETHERAL AND YOUR DREAMS OF A HEAVENLY NATURE.

WE KNOW THIS IS SO BECAUSE WE HAVE A FEW HUNDRED SUBSCRIPTION ACCOUNTS FOR WHICH WE ARE CALLING, CALLING, SOME DAYS, ONE OR MORE SUBSCRIBERS WILL COME IN AND RENEW, OTHER DAYS WE DRAW A BLANK AND IT IS THEN WE LIVE IN HOPE, BUT FEEL LIKE DYING IN DESPAIR.

TO THOSE SUBSCRIBERS WHO HAVE COME IN AND PAID WE HEREWIT SAY, THANK YOU, WITH CAPITAL LETTERS, OTHERS, WHOM WE HOPE ARE ON THEIR WAY HERE, WE CRY HURRY, HURRY! HURRY!

GENERAL—The report of the bank of Montreal for the month of July is not very encouraging. It shows a decrease in deposits and a slight increase in loans. The bank's assets are reported to be in good condition, but the overall financial picture is not as bright as it could be. The bank's management is working to improve the situation, but it will take some time to see the results of their efforts.

FINANCIAL—The financial market is showing signs of recovery, but it is still in a fragile state. The stock market is up, but the bond market is down. The overall economy is still struggling, and it will take some time to get back on its feet. The government is working to stimulate the economy, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

INTERNATIONAL—The international situation is tense, with many countries in a state of conflict. The League of Nations is trying to mediate the disputes, but it is not clear how successful it will be. The world is in a state of uncertainty, and it is not clear what the future holds.

LOCAL—The local situation is also not very encouraging. The economy is still struggling, and many businesses are closing. The government is working to provide relief, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be. The people are suffering, and it is not clear when the situation will improve.

SPORTS—The sports scene is also not very exciting. There are no major events scheduled for the next few weeks, and the fans are disappointed. The teams are struggling, and it is not clear when they will get back on their feet.

ENTERTAINMENT—The entertainment scene is also not very exciting. There are no major movies or TV shows scheduled for the next few weeks, and the fans are disappointed. The industry is struggling, and it is not clear when it will get back on its feet.

ADVERTISING—The advertising industry is also not very healthy. Many companies are cutting back on their advertising, and the industry is struggling. The advertising agencies are also struggling, and it is not clear when the industry will get back on its feet.

TECHNOLOGY—The technology industry is also not very healthy. Many companies are cutting back on their research and development, and the industry is struggling. The technology is not advancing as fast as it should, and it is not clear when the industry will get back on its feet.

ENVIRONMENT—The environment is also not very healthy. There is a lot of pollution, and the natural resources are being depleted. The government is working to protect the environment, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

HEALTH—The health of the population is also not very good. There are a lot of diseases, and the people are not getting enough exercise. The government is working to improve the health of the population, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

EDUCATION—The education system is also not very healthy. Many schools are closing, and the students are not getting a good education. The government is working to improve the education system, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

RELIGION—The religion of the population is also not very healthy. Many people are losing their faith, and the churches are struggling. The religious leaders are working to improve the religion, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

ARTS—The arts are also not very healthy. Many artists are struggling, and the arts are not getting the support they need. The government is working to support the arts, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

SCIENCE—The science is also not very healthy. Many scientists are struggling, and the science is not getting the support it needs. The government is working to support the science, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

PHILOSOPHY—The philosophy is also not very healthy. Many philosophers are struggling, and the philosophy is not getting the support it needs. The government is working to support the philosophy, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

PSYCHOLOGY—The psychology is also not very healthy. Many psychologists are struggling, and the psychology is not getting the support it needs. The government is working to support the psychology, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

SOCIOLOGY—The sociology is also not very healthy. Many sociologists are struggling, and the sociology is not getting the support it needs. The government is working to support the sociology, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

POLITICAL SCIENCE—The political science is also not very healthy. Many political scientists are struggling, and the political science is not getting the support it needs. The government is working to support the political science, but it is not clear how effective these measures will be.

Hockey

Tahiti Lost to Viking on Home Ice

Was at Viking

Both hockey teams played the second game of the season on Thursday night, with the result of a 3-1 victory for the Vikings.

In the first period, play was fast and furious, and although both teams had narrow escapes, no goals were scored.

In the second period, although the teams had the better of the play and exchanged their goals, they could not score. The first goal was scored by a Viking, in the 10th minute, after a few minutes' play.

After the second period, the teams went up among the lights, and in the 20th minute, the Viking scored the second goal.

The third period (which had gone) was a close race, with the Viking scoring the third goal in the 25th minute.

The Store That Serves You Best

An Important Reminder To Our Customers

The continuation of existing business conditions which are familiar to all of us, makes it necessary for us to again remind our customers that we are compelled to keep our sales on a cash basis. We are forced to remind those of our customers, who have enjoyed the privilege of purchasing on a monthly account basis that such accounts are immediately due on the first of the following month and must be promptly paid, otherwise the accommodation will have to be withdrawn. The wholesalers are on a practically cash basis which allows us no option but to insist upon maintaining our business on a cash basis to avoid operating at a loss, and to enable us to give our customers service and the benefit of low competitive prices.

Wishing you a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

WHEAT AND OTHER PRICES HOLDING UP INCREASED

Some of the emergency report's slight increase in material supplies this week, but others have national little or no change. It is expected, however, that another few weeks will probably see a further rise in the upward trend with a steady increase in spring and the peak production reached. Weather conditions will, of course, be a large factor in the amount of crops that will be harvested during the next few months.

Prices are holding unchanged. Cement plants are quoting the same as contractors, namely, special

To Suspend Business In Money Orders

Post Office Not Issuing
Orders Payable in Other Countries

OTTAWA—Post office department announced Monday all money-order business to and from Canada, with any part of the world, has been suspended. The order takes effect immediately. No period will be named to the order but financial developments will be watched from day to day.

The post office department announced earlier that decision had been made to suspend loans of money to the business payees in the United States. The period of suspension has not been taken in this direction, the department said, in view of the order of President Roosevelt suspending United States banks until Friday.

Consideration is being given to the possibility of suspending the business payees may be taken into the acceptance of United States money orders payable in Canada. The department sent out orders from Ottawa Saturday that no provisions were to be paid on United States money orders until further notice.

President Brezhnev stated that the Soviet Union brought into effect its prohibition and would not apply to business done in the present year when this year's grain was being sold.

Simulacrum Tarkus Latus

When the bill pertaining for leaders of the Soviet Union to bring a sharp against the step was under discussion, President Brezhnev and there was the question as to whether the year, revenue would be justified in taking less or more of representatives than he was made in 1952 and 1953. He was not so much concerned over 50 per cent. Of the total estimate, for the 1952 year, 100,000 against what there would be no contribution by the Soviet Union. This amount, however, would in addition be reduced when more, things was done. The Soviet Union was not a welfare state, but it was not so much why the advance should be to replace, but to replace.

Discussion among the members showed the feeling that the government should be regarded and the members would like to indicate payment of membership.

Our whole modern civilization offers many examples of this principle of mutual aid. We have any number of organizations which include, among their objectives, the assistance of mutual or other individuals who are in need. This spirit of service may be said to be the driving force in all worth while organizations. At the present time, the need for mutual aid is more evident than ever in the field of public health work.

The maintenance of health departments is a form of insurance. Insurance is a form of mutual aid. A group agrees to make certain fixed regular payments so that each one of them, individually, may "cover or Lack of security drives the worker too hard in his effort to be prepared against such happenings. He works because he feels insecure as regards himself and his family, and, from his overwork and his worry, certainills may spring. By sharing the dangers which threaten him, that is, by taking advantage of the usual from men and women, no man, in large measure, free himself of worry and not be such a slave to work. Relaxation should not have to wait for the later years of life. The whole of life should have time for a healthy mixture of work and play. Too much of either is undesirable, it is the fair mixture of both which provides for the healthiest and the happiest life.

CAR SALES ON UP GRADE
Car sales figures of former month reveal a well-known "seasonal" pattern some time in early summer, but the figures for the month of May are on the chart for 1953. It is believed that the push of sales will be higher than the average for the month of May of 1952 by the April-May period. This is borne out by the sales figures for the month of May of 1952, which were 10,700 units, compared with 10,000 units for the month of May of 1951. This is the month of May were 10,000 units, compared with 10,000 units for the month of May of 1951. ment due of $75,560,000, or currently some 132 per cent over and approximately 14 per cent. If history repeats itself, the current figures are probably that the U.S.A. may have to settle some as England did after the Napoleonic Wars for perhaps approximately 14 per cent of the amount the loaned.

The Chancellor of the British Exchequer, Lord Liverpool, in his statements of policy to Parliament after the Napoleonic Wars said in favour of payments had been made on waver-ing from January to May, including a gain in the City of over one year, near, more of General Macleod of Canada being compensated for the loss of his gain. Canada, Puerto Rico and Oldenholm all registered substantial increases.

HEALTH
By Dr. J. H. McCAULEY

Many people are not interested in their health until they are in poor health. It is a good idea to take care of your health now, before it is too late.

All Set For Toheld's Annual Sports Day

GOOD ARMY OF BASEBALL TALENT

Races And Athletic Events Of All Kinds Make Up A Party And Come

All roads lead to Toheld on Wednesday, July 26th. From morning when that indefatigable worker Tom Wallington drives the first spike into the truss on the main stand until the last strains of the home sweet home waltz have died away at the dance, this Wednesday is to be a gala day for Toheld. Our neighbors, Ketchum, Laidlaw, Lindbrook, Barrie, Woodman, Kingman and other points are expected to be present—some with bells on—and altogether it is going to be one big party.

This particular Wednesday is going to be a day out for everyone living within a few miles of here—young and old—there are no age limits set.

For entertainment there will be the usual baseball, and Bert Calvert says this will be made as snappy as it is possible to make it. The exact terms are not at present known, or if they are Bert has not told us. With good prize money up, the teams will be stepping out to win first money.

Softball is on the cards and some team or other will be sporting a new bat and ball.

Then there are races for old and young. The same old stuff but carrying a fresh appeal to the participants and spectators with the passing of every year. A few fun prizes will add to the gaiety.

The refreshment booth will be in charge of fully experienced operators who can work with the speed of lightning and can maintain about a half a million light bulbs per hour—something like that. And hot dogs—the hot dog operator knows all that hot dogs, in and out. He can spot just the right hot dog for the astronomical capabilities of each individual customer. Try him out on this.

For those who like basketball, a good game is being arranged. This sport has come ahead fast in the past few years and a good many towns have good teams. Those who like their little five of basketball will find a course laid out for them and will also find the cream of horse picketing talent there to give good opposition.

A dance at the Variety Theatre will wind up the day. Remember, Wednesday, July 26th.

TOFIELD BALL CLUB, BANK OF LOSE TWO TO HOLDEN

What is wrong with the Tullish baseball club. Most fans are asking this question after witnessing Monday night's game against Halden. After having gained a five run lead they let the game slip through their fingers by the score of 5-7. The game has happened in two of three other games this year.

On paper Tullish has one of the strongest clubs in this part of the country, good hitters, good pitching and they can play good defensive ball.

What is wrong?

General—The improved crop of Canada, the late to count the southern three Prairie crop will be less. The crops in Canada are usually as early as the United States. The Irish Protestants will be well below the rain are no deterioration. The weather has been grain crops.

Without mentioning any names, the league and exhibition games are not taken seriously enough by some of the players.

Here seems to lay the trouble, now, when fans pay their two dollars to see a ball game, they want to see, and rightfully too, all players on their team and in the game all the time and not to see a lot of foolishness carried out when an error is committed a joke made up. This comes to the writer to be the reason why T-Field is losing games they should win.

This comes to the writer to be the reason why T-Field is losing games they should win.

WHEN

For an example, when they play tournament ball, they usually come out on top or very close to it and in these games you don't see any grand-standing or foolishness.

No if the fans are to be kept interested in the game every player must be prepared to give all he's got or not play, for after all it is the fans that keeps the game alive.

No fan minds seeing a team lose if they have been trying hard all the time but they do hate to see a game lost through foolishness or lack of interest on the part of players.

So, let's all get together and make the Tefield team a winner, which it can be if everyone pulls in the right direction.

Tefield Lanes Two To Hidden

Hidden who have been occupying the cellar position in the Gas Lane Ball League most of the summer locked the dope bucket all over the last two past week when they hung two defeats on the locals and one on Viking.

In both games with Tefield the in-

Monday night's game played in Telford was a heartbreaker to lose. After having a five run lead the locals committed errors and overthrows to allow Holden to tie them and edge out in the last inning with a 3-2 victory.

Telford Taking Part In Casmore Hall Tournament

Combining with Ryrie, Telford are taking part in the Casmore Hall tournament.

In the first game played they won a rather sloppy game from Round Hill, in which both teams were guilty of several miscues.

At the time of writing the score has just come through that Telford lost their semi-final game against Red Willow by 14- score of 6-8.

The weather man was "working twice at Ardmore's district during Thursday's night's hailstorm which started at 10:30 p.m. and continued to 10 p.m. Most of the meteorological minutiae were about the size of a pea but some of them were so large as to be distinguished by the ordinary sense of "ballistics." The hail was measured 7-12 inches in circumference some diamonds and 0-12 inches across. The hail was not very numerous but the hailstones were badly damaged while trees and gardens were "cut to pieces."

minutely at grade crossings, and the number of crossings should be greatly reduced". This is borne out by a judgment of the Unhiltes Commission of Maine following a recent accident at South's Crossing, about three miles south of Bangor, where two men were instantly killed in a collision between their car and a train of the Canadian National Railway.

It is pointed out that while the Commission observed all the regulations that the drivers of cars have to observe at grade crossings, it is a most unfortunate view of the line for a only law but reasonable procedure to survive. According to the evidence, at least one of the automobiles involved in the accident was not properly equipped with a horn, and the driver was not properly equipped with a horn.

"In many other accidents which have been called to our attention," the report of the Commission shows, "travelers on the highway have been killed or injured through the neglect of their responsibility when approaching a railroad crossing".

reports to Canadian National Railways operating officers last week indicated that the first car of new wheat to be loaded in the Manitoba district was filled out on August 1 at St. Jean, Man., with H. Brunet as consignee and the shipment bound for Port Arthur.

HEALTH

Every fall, a cold or influenza is bound to come along. It is a fact that the cold and influenza are the most common ailments of the season. They are caused by germs which are everywhere. They can be prevented by taking a few simple precautions.

First, keep your nose and throat clean. Wash your nose with a saline solution several times a day. Use a throat lozenge to keep your throat moist. Avoid cold drinks and foods. Eat plenty of fruit and vegetables. Get plenty of rest and exercise.

Second, avoid crowded places. If you must go to a crowded place, wear a mask. Avoid shaking hands with strangers. Do not cough or sneeze into your hands. Wash your hands frequently with soap and water.

Third, get vaccinated. There are vaccines available for the prevention of diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough. Get vaccinated every year. This will protect you and your family.

Fourth, get plenty of rest and exercise. A healthy body is more resistant to disease. Get plenty of sleep. Exercise regularly. Eat a healthy diet. Avoid stress and worry.

Fifth, avoid smoking and drinking. Smoking and drinking are bad for your health. They can lead to many diseases. Avoid them completely. If you are a smoker, try to quit. If you are a drinker, try to limit your intake.

Sixth, get regular medical checkups. See your doctor every year. This will help you detect any problems early. Your doctor can give you advice on how to stay healthy. Follow his advice.

Seventh, get plenty of fresh air. Fresh air is good for your health. Go outside every day. Breathe in the fresh air. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid polluted air.

Eighth, get plenty of sunlight. Sunlight is good for your health. It helps your body produce vitamin D. Go outside every day. Get plenty of sunlight. This will help you stay healthy.

Ninth, get plenty of water. Water is essential for your health. Drink plenty of water every day. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid sugary drinks and alcohol.

Tenth, get plenty of sleep. Sleep is essential for your health. Get plenty of sleep every night. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid staying up late.

Eleventh, get plenty of exercise. Exercise is good for your health. Exercise regularly. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid sitting for long periods.

Twelfth, get plenty of rest. Rest is essential for your health. Get plenty of rest every day. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid overworking.

Thirteenth, get plenty of food. Food is essential for your health. Eat plenty of food every day. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid skipping meals.

Fourteenth, get plenty of love. Love is good for your health. Get plenty of love every day. This will help you stay healthy. Avoid being lonely.

Gas Line Hockey League Xmas Concert Great Success

The past two weeks have seen the local hockey teams in action in their games. Although picking up the points and a possible edge, the gas line has given a pleasing break of hockey to the fans.

Tofield 4-Visking 2
The teams were their first game of the season on Wednesday last when they defeated Visking by a 4-2 score. In a fast and exciting encounter. Right from the start the locals staged a strong offensive and scored three goals in the first period while the best Visking could do was one.

The second period found Visking trying hard and they were finally rewarded when they scored, a most individual effort. Tofield came right back however and added another to their lead to make the score read 4-2. The third period went worst for Visking. These scores for Tofield were: L. Glover 2; and Werten 2.

Visking 3-Tofield 2
Returning to Visking on the following Friday, the locals held the fast skating Visking club to a 3-2 draw. The locals got off on the right foot when Glover scored on a long shot. The first period ended with the locals leading 1-0. The second period was practically a repetition of the first and found Tofield leading 2-1 at the end. After Allan Lewis had scored from close in.

The third period, however, was different with Visking going on a scorers rampage, taking the score up to a short end and then taking the lead 3-2. The lead they held until Tofield worked furiously to get the equalizer. Bob White scored the million dollar goal from a setpiece. The referee overruled the play but the score remained unaffected at 3-2.

Visking 4-Tofield 1
Tofield lost a heartbreaker on Tuesday night as Visking at Hildesby by a 4-1 score. Hildesby opened the scoring and Tofield earned it up when Glover scored on a shot from the blue line. Hildesby got another and were leading 2-1 at the end of the first period. In the second period Tofield scored it up again when Werten scored on a shot from the blue line. Hildesby, however, took a 4-2 lead when they scored two in quick succession. The second game ended with Hildesby leading a two goal lead. In the third period the locals were at it hammer and tongs and scored, and were rewarded when Werten scored from just over the blue line. With just five seconds remaining to play Werten dominated the play but the goal was disallowed, the referee ruling the puck hit the top of the net and the game ended with Hildesby victors by a 4-1 score.

Hildesby 1-Tofield 2
On Thursday evening Hildesby again scored not a two goal win in one of the most hectic and exciting games seen on local ice this year. First one team would have the lead and then the other and then the score would lead up higher than a roller coaster.

The first period ended with the locals leading 2-1. In the second period Hildesby stopped up the pace and scored two goals at the minute line. In the third period Tofield went to work to end their opponents' lead and some lead the score tied 2-2 when they scored two in quick succession. Hildesby came right back however, with two more while the locals could do was one. The score got one more and the game ended with Hildesby clinging to their lead.

Hildesby came right back however, with two more while the locals could do was one. The score got one more and the game ended with Hildesby clinging to their lead.

Tofield 1-Visking 3
In a wide open game played on Tuesday night, the locals led the game 1-0 at the end of the first period. Hildesby came back strong and scored three goals in the first period to take the lead. Hildesby scored three goals in the first period to take the lead.

After getting away in a slow start the locals came to life in the second and third periods and were victors for the win. Hildesby, however, scored a right winger of the first line had a

AND
ITS USEFULNESS TO THE COMMUNITY

Efficiency in service, financial strength, mature experience and unwavering adherence to sound principles—these are the factors that measure the usefulness of a bank and the stability it affords to the community.

The Bank of Montreal provides complete and efficient service in every department of domestic and foreign banking.

Its strength is manifested in assets exceeding by $700,000,000 in liabilities to the public—proportionate and undiminished by over 116 years of successful operation.

Old Clipper Ship's Departed Glory
The clipper ship, a symbol of the old days, is shown in a black and white photograph. The ship is a large, multi-masted sailing vessel, likely a clipper ship, shown from a side-on perspective. It has three masts and is sailing on a choppy sea. The ship is dark in color, possibly black or dark brown, and has white sails. The background is a light, hazy sky. The ship is moving towards the right of the frame.

WHAT Makes a Town?

A prosperous population which demands a community centre where may be established business, educational, religious and entertainment facilities. Where there flourish and are active it is to surmise that the people of that section realize and appreciate the value to them of such a centre.

What Maintains It?

The towns are largely maintained by the surrounding districts. But the organization, the direction, and to a great measure the upkeep, of the institutions in such towns are in the hands of the business interests, together with those directly connected therewith. Without the active business and professional men to supervise and govern these public institutions and undertakings no town could thrive.

Who Is Mainly Affected?

Every citizen either in or about a town should be concerned in seeing to it that they do their part in carrying on any good cause which may be promoted, either by financial or active support. Only in this way will any town prosper and develop as it should.

PUBLICITY IS REQUIRED

In promotion your local paper takes the leading part. It is the champion of worthy causes and philanthropic and patriotic undertakings. But to function properly, and fully carry out its natural prerogatives, it must in turn have the financial support of the community it serves. When needing advertising or printed matter, always think first of every point of the compass, a mighty host of plumes waving wildly. The gigantic bird of prey hovered over the canyon, then his wicked yellow eyes looked the chosen bird, probably a cripple or a weakling. Down like a plummet he plunged his sharp claws attacking the sickly drooping of the legs, and leaving a victim to flutter seaward, down the face of the cliff. The eagle unharmed, without a single motion that told of speed or strength, sailed up to the top of a dead fir tree to watch the tragic instrument. He counted seven eagles that day, and at one moment saw eight feeding on dead game.

The last goose may not leave "The Gulf" water before May and often will not into June. She arrives at the islands in the south eastern part of James Bay in June, yet the ice is to be found not far down in the hummock which she chooses for her nest. The rest of the flocks go so far north that Captain Bernier at his most northerly points the old geese still streaming over his mast head, evidently Asia-bound.

We do not have a great host migrating on this route. I understand that the central migrating host of the Mississippi contained about half the wild geese species of America. I think the other half may be fairly evenly divided into two streams that work up and down along the Atlantic and the Pacific Coast, but even if I do think the Pacific Coast has more wild geese than the Atlantic, I know we have larger flocks here, for I never saw a big flock along the Pacific for the five years I was in Port Joli, N.S.

The geese are on the move, and the eggs daily fought for against blizzards and frosts. If the blizzard sends too deep a blanket of snow all the eggs and young perishes, and the birds are not seen for five years at least. Not sooner are the young hatched than the anxious mother goose thinks of the thousands of miles between her and the ice-free waters off our coast, and the southern coasts. She also often starts quailing when her companion flocks of geese are walking and running behind her, as our men have seen. All the East Coast of America is ready-made for the geese. The birds have been here for many years, and the birds have been here for many years.

● In view of the two Canadian railways, to cover the two Canadian railways a special low fare travel bargain will be offered the travelling public over the period June 1st to 30th inclusive.

According to an announcement made a few days ago by Jas. Furber, secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association Western Lines. This will be a travel excursion from Western Canada to Eastern on the basis of one cent a mile in each direction.
The special rates will apply from stations between Vancouver-Victoria and Port Arthur-Armstrong.
The tickets will be good to all stato be in Eastern Canada from Nain to Miramichi, St. John's, Capreol, Conception Bay, St. John's, Miramichi and East. One of the outstanding features of the excursion tickets is that they will have a time limit of forty-five days, including date of sale.

All tickets will be good in reverse, and will also be honored in tourist class, where such fare are applicable. Payment of a small additional charge for a ticket agent's fee that is payable will be permitted.

Children five and under travel will be carried at half fare.

This will afford the people of Western Canada an excellent opportunity to make a visit to Eastern Canada during the holiday season at minimum cost.

Port Arthur, Ont., May 14th.—In unloading the Hamonic and the Harmon a few days ago, the Canadian National Railway freight shed was thought the busiest time it has experienced in many years, an official of the freight shed stated. In unloading, 2,000 tons of freight were taken off the vessels 150,000 hours. Including the loading of over 2,000 tons of flour, the sheds "loaded and unloaded" more than 5,000 tons in little over 100,000 hours.

Keep Up Quality

The reputation of Canadian wheat on the markets of the world is due to the efforts wheat farmers have made to keep up the quality of their production.

And the reputation of United Grain Growers is similarly based on unremitting efforts to keep up the quality of its service to farmers in handling their grain and furnishing them with supplies.

Planning for an Era of Plenty
By Glenn Frank, President, University of Wisconsin

It has been the essence of the American spirit to face the future with high expectancy of new and vibrant possibilities. The American has been a man of faith. He has always scorned the suggestion of surrender in the face of difficult circumstances. He needs to remember and to rely upon that spirit now.

There is no denying the fact that the relentless advance of physical science and industrial technology has confronted us with unprecedented difficulties. The development of scientific processes has moved with alpine speed. The development of social policies has lumbered on at a snail's pace.

STORES ARE "ON TRIAL"

Before a Jury of Housewives!

Changing prices of commodities—uncertainties as to what tomorrow's purchases are to cost—anxiety as to how to "manage" household finances in order to avert deficits and debt—serve to make the problems of buying for the home especially vexing to housewives.

These conditions also serve to make the aids of the stores more interesting to them than ever before. They read these aids now as with an eagerness born of a hope that this or that article may still be obtained at a manageable price.

They look for items of "good news" in the aids.

This frame of mind, common to a great majority of women who buy household supplies, places the merchants on trial. It likewise affords to merchants unusual opportunities to impress upon the service-value to them of their stores.

Merchants who are determined to face these new conditions and to make them easier for their customers will prove, in a larger way than ever before, the helpfulness of advertising.

They will make their aids of service to their customers. They will fill them with items of "good news" which all women are anxious to find as to prices and offerings.

TRIO BOYS DRIVEN AT EDMONTON BEACH WHEN CANGE OVERTAKES

Edmonton Beach, August 28. — Edith, Edna, and Lewy Hamilton, the three young girls who were nearly drowned Sunday, when a canoe in which they were paddling overturned in 50 feet of water, about halfway between Barris's beach and the Island Beach.

The tragedy, which was described by Ralph Austin, owner of the beach, practically all the summer boys at breakfast. One of the youths sank immediately—Austin could not say which. But the other boy floundered help and started to swim toward the shore.

The dead youths had set out on a mission against the advice of several persons at the beach. It was considered quite a treacherous craft. The lake was smooth as glass at the time of the accident, and the canoe was the only craft on the lake.

Douglas C. Doss, camp employee, and Auxier put out with all speed in a motor launch to retrieve the victims before they reached the spot where the canoe had capsized. Both men dove into the water but were unable to reach either of the young men.

HOW TIGERS HUNT

By Brigadier-General R. C. Burton
In "Forest and Outdoors"

New light on India's most ferocious beast. Master of the lion tribe he falls upon his victims with terrific speed and strength.

THE TIGER occupies a prominent place in Hindu mythology and in native superstitions, as is only to be expected considering the appearance, terrible armor and habits of this wonderful animal. The animal tigers and leopards (as it is called) is a god of the people of India generally and a demon of the people of the East.

Tigers prey largely on domestic cattle—buffaloes, oxen and horses—in jungle districts remote from human habitations they chiefly hunt deer, nilgai and pig. But few tigers come into the open. They have been known to attack such large animals as young elephants, camels and bison. I have known them attack, kill and devour bears on several occasions. They will eat snakes, crabs and fish when hard pressed for food. I have found a large python bitten in half and partially eaten by a tiger. They have been known to kill and eat panthers of the same species.

Tigers are at times given to cannibalism, the bodies usually being the victims; but instances have been known of a tiger killing and eating a panther of his own species. In one case a tiger killed and ate a lion.

Four Elements Enter Yachting More Evenly Than Other Sports

(Christian Science Monitor)

It is claimed that four elements enter into all sports, strength, skill, strategy and luck, and that they are more evenly distributed in yachting than in any other form of outdoor recreation.

Strength in yachting racing does not mean the physical ability and endurance of officers and crew, but includes the seaworthiness of the craft, and the out and application of her sails and rig. The element of skill not only embraces the managerial ability of her skipper, his knowledge and his experience in handling his boat, but takes in the speed and execution of her crew in handling running rigging and sails, as well as the genius and engineering of her designer, builder, rigger and sailmaker.

Strategy and tactics which almost wholly on the man at the wheel although an alert afterward is of great assistance in the outstanding feature in every contest, especially at the start, where the upper hand, the better berth, the jump is regarded as 50 per cent of a race.

In no other sport is the element of chance quite so high as in yachting. It is the problem of solving or trying to solve the variable of wind and sea often expressed in sudden changes usually without notice, but which outside a hand control that makes competitive yachting of the sail one of the most fascinating of sports.

The two contenders in the 12th match for the America's Cup to be sailed off Newport, beginning September 15th, are the highest expressions of the originality, ingenuity and skill of two famous naval architects, Charles E. Nicholson of Gosport, England, and William W. Atwood of New York. Their respective products, Endeavour the challenger, and Rainbow the defender, are the result of more than 50 years of experience in designing small and large racing craft.

Immediately following the last match in 1930, British and American naval architects came to an agreement on the basic elements of a Class or 12-foot racing yacht. The architects agreed that the boats should have accommodations for all hands, that her gear should be on deck, that her mast should weigh at least 5000 pounds and that the hull should not be over 7500 sq. ft., or throughout. Regarding the latter condition, it should be remembered that it is reckoned by the height of her mast and the length of the base of her triangle from bow to the end of the boom, and does not apply to the known as spinnakers, set inside this triangle, but on top of the boom. Some of these running sails contained more than twice as much canvas as the regular or working sails. Vanitie has a spinnaker that weighs 17,000 sq. ft., of four ounce duval, the largest sail ever carried by any craft, commercial or pleasure. Both Rainbow and Endeavour have installed double luff spinnakers containing over 12,000 sq. ft.

Endeavour and Rainbow are not exactly one-design boats, a type so popular in smaller classes; but it takes an expert to point out wherein they differ. Endeavour is a trifle larger than Rainbow and carries a trifle less sail. Each have centre-booms that add six feet to their draft when the wind blows. Both have metal hulls, but Endeavour being of steel, while Rainbow has a bronze underbody and steel topsides. They are equipped with metal masts, Endeavour's being of steel and three feet longer than Rainbow's duralumin spar, and several inches less than Rainbow's.

After an unsatisfactory experience with a light, flexible boom, Endeavour reverted to the type used by the Endeavour in 1930 and installed a triangular spar, four feet broad on top and known as a "Park Avenue" boom. On the other hand Rainbow discarded Endeavour's "Park Avenue" and slung a flexible boom about the middle of the summer.

The sails of the two boats are very much alike, in fact their mainmasts are practically interchangeable. Rainbow carries her sails in the usual manner, in the mainsail, with the figure below the letter, while Endeavour under the "A-K-A." As the two sets of figures are similar, the boats can be sailed at a distance of more than a mile, the two boats may be easily recognized for Rainbow's topsides are painted white, with narrow blue line, while Endeavour's are blue. Furthermore Mr. Sopwith's private signal, a square orange flag with a blue cross is carried on the truck, while Mr. Vanderbilt's white signal is a red star near the pole, the flag is flown on the starboard side of the sail about 30 feet below the truck.

Besides the double luff spinnakers, each yacht carries two other types of running sails, one of them boomless high Wood far out above the known as a "parachute" and the other of conventional style set on the opposite side to the mainsail and usually for heavy weather.

KEEP THE CREAM COMING

As a source of ready cash to be used for incidental expenditures, the cream cheese is unbeatable. Fed and watered and given a reasonable degree of care, "Old Bossie" more than does her share in keeping the wolf from the door. With the summer practically gone and the fall season upon us, with winter around the corner—a little extra effort now to ensure a cream supply during the coming months will pay excellent dividends.

Deliver your cream to the Tofield Creamery, avoid long hauls and obtain the utmost value for product.

Federal Member's Session Report

Two matters came up this year for discussion which have been discussed in almost every session of the House of Commons. The first is the question of the future of the St. Lawrence valley. The second is the question of the future of the St. Lawrence valley. The first is the question of the future of the St. Lawrence valley. The second is the question of the future of the St. Lawrence valley.

The Hum of the Binder The Roar of the Tractor

Each year, as the daylight hours noticeably become shorter, and we realize another summer is on the wane—the chorus is heard throughout the land. Not musical, as we understand the music of men; not even nature's music of wind, trees and water, but a chorus of frenzied activity.

Ripened grain has been cut and stacked, and men, to procure the golden kernels, have come with huge machines that do not permit defeat.

With a roar that is welcomed by those who know it best, the tractor driving the separator starts up a song from within the separator's vital—a battle song which shrieks of victory. Thresh, Thresh, Thresh, from early morning until evening. Thresh, Thresh, Thresh, and the golden grain comes down the spout adding its particular note to the crescendo of noises. The time of haste and hard work, but with a pleasant time—the time of reward.

There is another noise with which we are familiar, we, in the Mercury Office, hear it frequently. Not once each year, but once each week—the noise of the printing press.

Not the roar of the city daily press of course, but if you feel inclined to call it so, the pleasant song of a country print shop. A song that sings of events, local events, personal events. Singing bands of long ago were never so prolific of thought; the songs of marching armies were never so numerous as the items published.

Two dollars a year, the old press sings. Re-new promptly, re-new promptly.

Yes! September brings a western chorus. A chorus of noises on the farm, which each Wednesday brings its own particular noise to the Mercury Office. Can we, dare we, hope that both noise will be harmoniously blended, which simply expressed means that each and every Mercury subscriber will pay his or her subscription this Fall.

We thank you

POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT—

WITH BOTH a federal and provincial election expected to be held for next year, more than ordinary interest is being taken in politics. The good and bad points of a country are being pretty thoroughly threshed out where men, and women too, like to congregate. In any event it is not likely that either a provincial or federal election will be held until several months of 1935 have passed, which makes it rather surprising that the interest is so keen at the present time; but the interest does clearly indicate that when the election campaign does get underway they will be lively ones with plenty of bitterly fought contests. Interest in political affairs by the general populace is always a healthy sign, even sound criticism of the government. In power is good for the country at large, but unless the general public takes a rational view of the political situation, more emphasis is going to be placed on whether this party or that party is returned to power, than on the work they are called to do after they are elected. While the party system has certain advantages and has found favor in all democratic countries, it has its drawbacks. No sane man should believe that all the good intentions, all the ability and all the good basic principles are embodied within the party he favors. Humanity appears up pretty much the same everywhere and at any time, regardless as to whether a test is made of Liberals, Conservatives, U.F.A., or any other group. A fairly good example of this can be seen in the so-called "radical" measures the Conservatives passed in the last Dominion session, when necessary to get Mr. Luchovich, the Conservatives out-rail the radicals. The truth of the matter is that these measures were, in the opinion of the vast majority of sane men, needed, not simply demanded, and being needed the necessary legislation was passed. The Liberals would in all probability have done about the same thing along similar lines had they been in power. The point to remember is that good government is vastly more important than party.

It is known that governments are often the victims of economic conditions, that is, a government is turned out of power when "times are bad" and receives a favorable vote when "times are good," yet there is no good reason why this should be so. Allowing for certain exceptions, such as adverse trade treaties with other countries, and such as the depression, the government in power has really very little to do with good or bad times, and is as much subject to the vagaries of economic conditions as the people themselves, especially in the case of Canadian governments, federal and provincial. The Canadian citizen should not himself the task of analyzing the economic situation and ask himself whether the government had done all it could reasonably be expected to do for the citizens considering economic conditions that have been world wide, and subject to conditions under which every government of whatever party must operate. If Mr. Canadian Citizen feels that the government has fallen down on the job and neglected opportunities to improve public welfare, it is both his duty and privilege to vote for some other group, but if he feels that the government now in power has done all it reasonably could be expected to do, he should not cry "it is time for a change" purely on the basis of economic conditions.

Under our system of democratic party politics to control the government indefinitely. That strange element, public opinion, sooner or later brings about a change. Sometimes a deposed government is meeting with its just deserts and sometimes is the victim of circumstances over which it has no control.

Whatever the future holds as regards the political fortunes of various parties, personal liberty in the form of the secret ballot should not be undervalued. This particular liberty of thought and action was won by our ancestors, inch by inch, and because in this age and generation it is handed to us free gratis, we should not place a lesser value than our forefathers did upon it. There are real signs in the world today that these liberties are being given the respect or the protection they deserve. Each voter should cast his vote as his or her judgment dictates and should not be swayed by popular clamor and confusion, which as likely as not, do nothing more than befuddle the true issues at stake.

MR. LUCHOVICH'S REPORT—

THE MERCURY publishes this week another installment of the Federal Member's report of the last session of the Dominion parliament. We believe this to be a fine thing for the people to know our case we have to take it second hand. Quite frequently a member of parliament is a prominent figure around election time and after the victory has been won is rarely seen until the next election. While we understand it is not possible for members to be constantly visiting every town and hamlet in the country, it is for the people for almost every member to present to his constituency a resume of the session as he sees it. We do believe, though, when making this report, that members should refrain from electing their words. It is not necessary to be so full of words as to make a man's words go into fancy flight of language to express simple facts. A straightforward story in proper sequence, simply yet attractively told, would make more interesting reading to the average person. We hope that Mr. Luchovich will forgive us when we say we were almost as much interested in his "deal makers" as in the legislation it was supposed to represent and the deep lessons it was supposed to teach. For we too, have traversed sandy shores similar to those of Atlantic City, not once or twice, but hundreds of times. We are afraid that the mackerel Mr. Luchovich saw was a radical and had broken away from the orthodox mackerel school. We have seen literally thousands and thousands of mackerel on many occasions, but all the mackerel we ever saw were caught—never have we known one to give itself up. But it was persistent, for after having been placed back in the sea, it returned the next day, a victim of its own follies, to greet Mr. Luchovich. Anyway he says it was the very same fish.

THE TROP TESTING PLAN

The fourth year of the Crop Testing Plan in Western Canada has just concluded its operations. It was a very successful year. This plan, which started in a very modest way with one farm in the province, has now grown to include 100 farms in the province. The plan is a very good one, and it is hoped that it will be continued for many years to come.

For we too, have traversed sandy shores similar to those of Atlantic City, not once or twice, but hundreds of times. We are afraid that the mackerel Mr. Luchovich saw was a radical and had broken away from the orthodox mackerel school. We have seen literally thousands and thousands of mackerel on many occasions, but all the mackerel we ever saw were caught—never have we known one to give itself up. But it was persistent, for after having been placed back in the sea, it returned the next day, a victim of its own follies, to greet Mr. Luchovich. Anyway he says it was the very same fish.

Following An Ideal

THE builders of Alberta Pool Elevators, the farm men and women who put their money, their time and their energy into the project, had definite plans before them.

They wanted a co-operative concern, first and foremost, operating on the basis of a public utility, with the aim of making the most efficient use of the land and the water, and of providing a service to the farmers of the province.

These ideals and principles have been followed as closely as possible by Alberta Pool Elevators. It is the ambition of the organization to make this co-operative enterprise respected and trusted by the public, and to provide a service to the farmers of the province.

There is no more unworkable way of expressing confidence in the wisdom of the ideals and objectives of this movement than by the fact that the farmers of the province have built up a business which has grown to be one of the largest in the province.

The Hum of the Binder The Roar of the Tractor

Each year, as the daylight hours noticeably become shorter, and we realize another summer is on the wane—a chorus is heard throughout the land. Not musical, as we understand the music of men; not even nature's music of wind, trees and water, but a chorus of frenzied activity.

Ripened grain has been cut and stacked, and men, to procure the golden kernels, have come with huge machines that do not permit defeat.

With a roar that is welcomed by those who know it best, the tractor driving the separator starts up a song from within the separator's vital—a battle song which shrieks of victory. Thrash, Thrash, Thrash, from early morning until evening. Thrash, Thrash, Thrash and the golden grain comes down the spot adding its particular note to the crescendo of noises. The time of hustle and hard work, but without a pleasant time. The time of reward.

There is another noise with which we are familiar, we, in the Mercury Office, hear it frequently. Not once each year, but once each week—the noise of the printing press.

Not the roar of the city daily press of course, but if you feel inclined to call it so, the pleasant song of a country print shop. A song that sings of events, local news, personal events. Singing bands of long ago were never so prolific of thought; the songs of marching armies were never so numerous as the items published.

Two dollars a year, the old press sings. Re-new promptly, re-new promptly, re-new promptly.

Yes! September brings a western chorus. A chorus of noises on the farm, while each Wednesday brings its own particular note to the Mercury Office. Can we dare, we hope that both noises will be harmoniously blended, which simply expresses means that each and every Mercury subscriber will pay his or her subscription this Fall.

We thank you.

THE MILK QUESTION—
 SOMETHING in the nature of a bombshell dropped into the dairy industry of the province of Alberta last week when the Provincial Health Inspector, before a meeting of the Dairy Producers' Association, said that he had found that the milk of the province was not of the highest quality.

Any way, from all reports the interviews with the local dairymen were not altogether of the most encouraging nature. The result was that all dairymen came in for some comment more than others, and a number were ordered to cease selling milk until such alterations in the barns, etc., which the Inspector ordered were made. During the past few months, we understand that some thirty dairies have been ordered closed so as to keep the milk in the province in the best possible condition.

It is hardly necessary to say that pure milk is an absolute essential; nor is it necessary to say that milk leaving the cow in a pure state, is one of the easiest things to become contaminated. Consequently, the government through the department of health has laid down a number of regulations regarding barns, milk houses, etc. These regulations are rather elaborate and the small dairymen with a limited output find them not easy of economic attainment. In other words to get to the essence of the regulations and the health inspector says must be done, means too great an expense for the volume of business available in the average small dairy.

More especially is this so when the business available is split up between half a dozen small dairymen.

It is unwise to criticize too freely the regulations of the department which are designed for the immediate benefit of the consumer and the ultimate benefit of the producer; but if criticism is permissible at all, it could be said that apparently the regulations are too rigid, the same rules apply to the large dairies as the small ones—and the situation is not just the same. The large dairies are chiefly operated with hired help, who often do not live on the premises and who have no personal interest in the concern. The smaller dairies are generally operated by the owner with the assistance of his wife and together they possess an interest that is in the delivering of a pure product. Unless a person is just naturally careful, all the content floors in the world cannot bring about clean wholesome milk.

An illustration of this we can see in actual evidence on a Tofield dairy farm a year or so ago. A man representing himself as having acquired one of the big dairies of the city obtained employment on a Tofield dairy. The first thing he did was to buy a cow and to see if he could not see it done. After getting a small quantity of milk in the pail the man sauntered back in it and continued to milk. He was immediately "bawled out" and relieved of his job. No doubt this was an exceptional case and the man's connection with city dairies might have been just as brief, but the incident does show that the personal element is the important factor in the dairy business.

With the best of surroundings and equipment, while extreme care exercised and surroundings not quite up to the mark set by the department of health means a pure product.

The local Board of Health together with the Town Council have dealt with this question before and at one time made it necessary for dairymen delivering milk in Tofield to pay a license of $25.00. This was paid by one dairymen who was to considerable expense to cater to the milk trade. But the depression came along and people who had not done before, began selling milk and the license plan dropped into oblivion. Now the provincial government has taken over control and is the chief authority to what shall and shall not be done in the dairy business.

A FARMER'S DILEMMA—
 (Christian Science Monitor)
 SOMETHING NEW in dilemmas has appeared on the agricultural horizon after the patience and endurance of the American farmer has been tested to the utmost. First, he had falling prices of almost everything he sold to contend with. Then the problem of over-production had to be faced. And just as expert measures to meet that situation were provided, along came the drought and upset all calculations.

Now a farmer in one of the New England states writes to his newspaper protesting against what he calls "unwise and indiscriminate" aid. He says that a cousin (also a farmer) in a southern state received an order from Washington to plow under 25 per cent of his cotton crop. The cousin replied that there was not so much as a single boll on his property. He was then informed that as he was on the government list as a cotton planter, it would be "appreciated if he would kindly cooperate and" plow up 25 per cent of his cotton crop.

Shortly after this puzzling incident it is reported that he received another government communication ordering him to get rid of 50 per cent of his pigs. Again he took his pen in his hand and regretfully declared that his farm could not boast even as much as three little pigs. And again he was told that he was on the government list as a pig-breeder and would be pleased to do something about the pigs.

THE TOPIELD MERCURY
FIFTEEN YEARS AGO CANADA was engaged in the struggle for the successful of its war bond. National enthusiasm was at its highest pitch. Business was booming and money plentiful. Results exceeded the fondest hopes. Nearly $50,000,000 was subscribed for the 1919 Victory Loan Bonds. True, but opinion then was that people subscribed more from their widespread desire to assist national reconstruction rather than because of the attractive rate of interest.

THE TOPIELD MERCURY
CABINET MINISTERS' CARES—
CONSIDERABLE PUBLICITY and much adverse criticism greeted the announcement that the government had purchased six new cars for the use of cabinet ministers in both the old and new buildings. The amount of money involved, after the purchase of the cars, was $10,000. The cars were of the type known as "limousines" and were of the type known as "limousines" and were of the type known as "limousines".

THE TOPIELD MERCURY
CAUSES OF CRIME—
CAUSES OF crime offer a wide field of study. There are more causes of crime than there are types of it. Some causes are clearly defined and others are deeply buried. Some motives explain only one type of crime; others account for a wide range. The type of criminal activity today one motive for crime stands out above all others—the desire for "easy money".

THE TOPIELD MERCURY
There seem to be fashions in crime, so to speak. At least, different types of crime predominate at various times. If anyone had asked a few years ago what the most serious present crime was, the answer would have been, the capital crimes. Today kidnapping probably would be listed as the most heinous. Here again the preliminary motive, aside from an occasional desire for revenge, is the hope of big and easy money. The criminal increase in kidnapping is also a reflection of the rise of gangsterism and the application of current methods of organization and planning in the carrying out of the crime.

ACHIEVEMENT
As the flight written the entire reading world is reading of, discussing and praising the feat of the Scott-Black team of aviators who travelled by aeroplane from Middlesbrough to Vancouver, B.C., via Melbourne, Australia, in the amazing time of 70 hours, 50 minutes, thereby winning the big aerial derby and the $20,000 prize. It is truly an amazing achievement and the greatest speed flight in history, a distance of over 11,000 miles in less than three days. In addition to the Scott-Black team there were numerous other fliers including other aviators from England and America, Holland, New Zealand, Australia, The Irish Free State and New Guinea. The Holland's plane carrying five persons, express and mail was only 10 hours behind the winners. In all there were 21 planes entered in response to the fifteen thousand pound prize offered by Sir Macpherson Robertson. When the offer was first made it was thought it might not even attract enough entries to make the event interesting. It was realized special machines would have to be built and while the winning team would reap some orders in aeroplanes the losing nations would receive very little in consequence. Consequently technicians and designers worked day and night to build machines capable of such a feat. It was to win the race. Aeroplanes are now being built which are the inception of the race were not thought of and it is said that when it is realized that machines can be built capable of flying halfway round the world at speeds three times that of the fastest planes now in use, the whole business of long distance mail carrying will be revolutionized.

While planes of different nations were planning speed pioneering in a dash from England to Australia, the United States government through Postmaster General Farley was announcing a trans-Pacific air service. The following editorial taken from the Christian Science Monitor and run in conjunction with the English-Australia flight is of great interest, showing it is not a constant advance transportation by air is making.

Long has the public awaited cross-ocean flying, looking for Atlantic crossings as the first service, since that ocean proved to be too wide an amount of air traffic. Somewhat startling, then, the news of a trans-Pacific service announced as ready to start operations was not thought of. The Pan American Airlines, already running regular services to Europe and to the West Indies, stockholders in Chinese airlines spreading fanlike through China, was about to connect America with the Chinese fast.

Its "clipper ship" type of plane recently completed had proved itself capable of the long over-ocean flight, such a service was required.

While no route was announced, it is expected that Honolulu would be the first port of call, followed by a stop at Wake Island or Guam, then they would carry mail and express until regular flight made passenger carrying advisable.

But the company itself did not announce the route in the form of a letter. Thus the announcement is in the position of announcing a trans-Pacific air service.

First interpretation was, of course, the need for trade expansion. Most industrial countries live in the millions of China a great future market. European countries have been organizing flying services to China, say for because the routes were overland. This step by Pan American would put the United States into the Chinese field, with the advantage of large interests in existing Chinese airlines.

It is not apparent that this trade is directly a future affair, that present demand for passenger mail and emergency passenger service is nothing compared with that for an Atlantic service of half the distance. Looking ahead to other chances, the political and military aspect becomes significant, particularly with the Government making the announcement, and just on the eve of the preliminary naval conversations in London.

If regular passenger and freight service can be carried across the Pacific, with reloading for fuel at the various American-owned Pacific Islands, then at one leap the United States' great interests in the Far East are brought immeasurably closer. And at one leap the political and military equation in the whole Pacific area is altered. A trans-Pacific service of the type planned would strengthen American desire to retain control of necessary island fueling bases. At the same time, Japan, already extremely fearful, may be quick to figure that planes carrying 150 miles an hour and carrying forty-two passengers with baggage might also carry given a more dangerous load.

Of course, such a splendid prospect might not be to the cause of fear on either side of the Pacific. The chief thought should be that it is a step toward the invention of a new way of seeing the world, and of seeing the world in a new way. It is a step toward the invention of a new way of seeing the world, and of seeing the world in a new way.

The legitimate wells in the East Texas field are sealed and the tanks gauged by representatives of the Texas Railroad Commission with a staff of 50 to watch an area of 10 miles long containing 15,000 openings to irretrievable waste. Numerous are the devices for their deception. One, for example, is a left-handed valve. An arrow points to the right but the wheel ordinarily turns to shut a valve. But if one of the left-handed type can be surreptitiously installed it may be locked and sealed in the position that indicates no flow of oil while the well is running all the time. Or a pump on a pipe line may be seemingly idle. But if this pump is examined it turns out to have no inlets and to be a device for "bypassing" oil. More daring are the dummy wells. One ratcher had one perfectly good well able to deliver 20,000 barrels a day. From it he ran hidden pipes to three other points on his lease. At those points he set up what appeared to be other wells, and asked for an allocation of four wells instead of one.

The big companies, by and large operating honestly, chafe under the fact that hot oil operators are depleting the field, drawing the field wealth from beneath their properties and depressing prices by selling under the market. In 1933, one of the big companies burst into defiance. It was three o'clock in the morning and it just happened that Railroad Commission investigators were returning from the capture of a well owner who, in the darkness of the night was filling his tank trucks with illegitimate oil. By chance they stumbled upon the most spectacular violation of any law that the depleting dragon "hot oil" has ever experienced.

When a well is producing oil for legitimate trade, the first step of its progress must be through a separator that takes the gas out of it. The gas must be burned or it may set off an explosion with the casual lighting of a match. So a pipe carrying this gas 15 to 20 feet above the ground is connected with each well, and the gas is burned. This a field producing at night becomes a blaze of huge torches lighting up the darkness.

On this particular night, as the enforcement floundered across a one-time oilmine field, it was a sudden came to vivid life. A hundred fire trucks with firebrakes began to leap into the air. They covered an area a mile wide, as this large major company, owning 450 wells, sprang into illicit production. In an hour fifty investigators were in the field making arrests of the violators. It was shown that 10,000 barrels above allowable production had flowed from these wells and into storage. The company was able, through the courts, still uncertain as to enforcement law and without pretense, to secure release for this oil and to escape punishment for its venture in defiance. For every day in 1933, according to the Railroad Commission, 100,000 barrels of hot oil was run in Texas. This would pile up a total of 36,500,000 barrels for the year, every barrel worth a dollar. Texas wonders if any other racket can show an equal return.

Aircraft In Nineteen-Fifty

By Fred G. Jupp in the Christian Science Monitor

"What... Leave San Francisco at once?"

Why, of course, if it is that imperative. Yes on the Swan... The film producer replaced the hotel receiver, signed, then turned to me.

"There goes our quiet evening together," he said. "The censors are attempting to stifle candid speech again. They would—just at the time when our new de Maupassant pictures are under discussion."

"I'm flying my yacht back to Hollywood. Come along, won't you?"

"Delighted!" I replied. But I wasn't. The thought of flying over four hundred miles in less than an hour was anything but delightful. But ten minutes later, in the easy cabin of the Swan, we were reviewing old acquaintances.

"According to the reviewer of your book, 'Twenty Years in Tibet,' the producer began, 'you have been away from civilization a long, long time.'"

"And America has no progress," I laughed, "that I feel like a Rip Van Winkle from the north of the Himalayas Mountains. It is extremely difficult for me to realize that this is the year 1934. Why, when I was in the States, away in 1919, you were gold pants and held the title of assistant director. Now you head a great film organization, while I still write volumes that no one reads."

The sudden start made me jump. The yacht rose swiftly, and, vertically, the back-lashing manner of an express elevator. But soon the pneumatic transmission was shifted to a forward speed, and the hum of the tractor propellers took the place of the sound of the speed helicopter blades. We were on range.

How easily my friend adjusted the automatic pilot and navigator, and set the indicators on the panel to the point of destination. There was a companion, too, for driftage. Our altitude reading was 14,000 feet, while the speed, to my utter amazement, was between 120 and 140 miles an hour.

My friend touched a button, and the ground-glass screen of the telescope projector became activated. Whatever came within focus of this lens was flashed up a scale equal to that seen with a pair of the most powerful binoculars.

The night was intensely dark. I could make out little except where the sickle moon stabbed a cloud. Yet now and then came a peculiar flicker of light, such as a firefly would make. Soon the void on the screen began to take shape. I glimpsed the blurred outline of a Navy liner as it snaked by. Why the air was literally alive with craft, all darkened except for their running lights. They were very hard to discern, at least to my inexperienced eyes, as they fled along the various altitude lines set apart for their particular use.

My friend, noticing my bewildered look, smiled. "An old invention of John Barley's," he explained. "The invisible ray searchlight. It sweeps clear to the horizon, pierces the densest fog, and catches each craft in its own electric eye which catches all that comes into the invisible ray's path."

The producer seemed to adjust the focus a little more sharply, then said:

"You know, of course, that since the year 1940, the helicopter has been the dominant factor in the success accounts for the troublesome forces of flying."

The screen of the telescope projector had suddenly filled with a blinding glare.

The Bahamas, en route to Los Angeles from the Riviera, with a passenger list of film celebrities, said my friend, taking the wireless telephone receiver down from the cabin wall. A second Hollywood had been established on the Riviera, for England, Germany, France and the lesser nations have joined hands with us for world-wide film distribution."

Adjusting the sensitive instrument, my friend picked up the microphone of the great ship coming up behind us.

"Turn your searchlight away, please."

As the dazzling glow of the Bahamas' light left the screen, it revealed a miniature of the gigantic liner as a remarkable picture flicked against a background of star-spangled darkness. And her lines, it appeared, were not those of sublimity and beauty, but she approached so rapidly that her image did not keep its proportions as long as I would have liked. Then, due to her superior speed, she drifted off the screen.

"The world does move," I remarked. "Only a few years ago such ships were but a thought."

WINTERING BROOD MARES

(Experimental Farm Note)

On many farms, mares used for breeding purposes are expected to get through the season's work and then take the same pot luck in being turned out with the other work horses in the fall to rustle at straw.

With increased interest in breeding and production of heavy farm power it is essential that good sires should have reasonable care during pregnancy. For a number of years it has been the practice at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Indian Head to breed mares in and out. In other words, the mares are divided, a stallion running out during the day (with the benefit of the farm stallion shelter at night, and the remainder assigned to a stallion with shelter in the south for shelter

Later on, anticipating the results of the 1846 treaty, the Hudson's Bay Company decided to move to occupy all British territory and to establish a settlement on the coast of the Strait of Henry, on the southeastern end of Vancouver Island. It is the site of the town of Victoria. But Camosun was chosen with a view to becoming a city and as a favourable spot on which to erect a fort. This was done in 1860. Shortly afterwards the name of Camosun was changed to Victoria in honour of the late Queen Victoria.

The story of the name of the town follows. In 1858, a French-Canadian, a farvell dion,

Mr. Gordon would, if elected, make a good M. A man of many years residence in Alberta, he has much business experience, and is a hard worker, and is both pleasant and shrewd; a good education for any line of endeavor, politics or business. Mr. Gordon is not a rapid or fluent speaker, but far in life seems to have accomplished as much as most whose chief talent is in rapid delivery. Anyway, in previous years he has been a very good, clear, vigorous opponent to those opposing him, and it is a fair guess that in the coming contest he will have his old political kick. A. L. Horton straining nerve and sinew to this third attempt.

MR. G. F. SMITH.
AT ONE of the largest political conventions held at Camrose, Mr. Geo. P. Smith was nominated as the Liberal candidate for the Camrose constituency. A Walrus most of the time, he is riding the Walrus most of the time. His constituency lies outside of the Tuleid district, the furthest from the shore line of the province. The South of interest here. Moreover at Tuleid, where Mr. Smith has visited and spoken at a number of places, he has been very successful.

granted without any further delay. The government is now preparing to step over, may do application to the commission for endorsement. It is believed that the rail do much to promote travel by rail in Canada.

W. F. Allison, manager of road and harbor traffic, Canadian Pacific Railway, has been elected president of the American Association of General Maritime Agents, comprising representatives of all the railways of the continent.

H. C. Grant, general superintendent, Ontario district, of Canadian Pacific Railway, has been promoted to the vice-president position by headquarters in Montreal. Mr. Grant is a well-known official of the railway in Ontario, where he has been stationed for a number of years.

Figures issued by the Department of Statistics dealing with the shipping industry in August says in Canada there are 100,000 tons of goods in transit by sea, a record of at least 50 per cent. higher than the figures shown by the same department for the same month of 1914, including an expansion of $50,000 in payrolls.

nomination, most everyone in this district is in the Minister of Agriculture's camp. He is 66 years and is a pioneer settler, postman and storekeeper of the Camrose district. The early prairie certainly has a strong conviction of the Smith.

PRICE FIXING—AT DIFFERENT times a paper has referred to government price fixing in basic cultural products, and while in the early part of the depression we felt the situation was serious enough to warrant serious consideration, the reluctance we advocated government pegged up for it had been fairly well proven that while an emergency action was necessary, the government fixed prices might prove successful a permanent measure.

The latest announcement regarding the abolishment of government price fixing comes from F. W. where even though the price of wheat has advanced to $2.40 per bushel, the plan actually failed.

At the present time the price of Canadian wheat is fixed at 90¢ per bushel. It is quite facile to the argument that price fixing is a delusion but it must be remembered that it is a temporary expedient for a low cost that it is a temporary arrangement.

Some people see in the present fixed price for wheat at Winnipeg a precedent for other grains as the season advances. Of course price goes up the producer reaps the benefit, it goes down the producer loses the benefit, it is the very best opinion and information at its command, many people believe the government fixed price is a delusion. It is true, it has likely been very low prices during the rush and high prices during the slow season. Most of the grain had left the farmers' hands.

As a temporary arrangement, government price fixing is quite useful to the producer. In the present time, the evidence is all against it.

MAN HURT IN RAY FIRE

IN BILLY-BROS. DISTRICT

Michael Ryan, living three miles northwest of Viking, met with a serious accident last Saturday morning when his car was involved in a fire. The car was owned by Billy Bros. and was being driven by Ryan. The fire broke out in the engine compartment and spread rapidly, forcing Ryan to jump out of the car. He was taken to the Viking hospital where he is now recovering from his injuries. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Behind the Hog | Local & Personal

Our heels are standard this year, and are built with mounds as they should fit your feet, but in spite of this, the following conversation was overheard, Chris—"Put your feet where it belongs Doc," and back snapped the reply, "Don't tempt me, don't tempt me Chris, you cannot work standing up."

We are now signing off for this week as it is so easy to grow morose in discussing wit and humor.

FOR SALE—Bess cow, will freshen soon, good milker.
